

GOL. HARRY GRINSTEAD.

Governor Appoints Capt. Grinstead Colonel of First Regiment.

SEVERAL OFFICERS WITHDRAW RESIGNATIONS AND REMAIN.

Frankfort, Ky., July 31.—Capt. Harry C. Grinstead, one of the officers of the old Louisville Legion, this afternoon was appointed colonel of the First Kentucky Infantry to succeed Col. W. Baldeman, resigned. The appointment was announced by Adj. Gen. P. P. Johnson and it was stated that Capt. Grinstead has agreed to accept the appointment. Capt. Grinstead was a member of the old Legion and has been identified with the Guard and at one time was a member in the regular army. In accordance with the wishes of the Legislature, a number of officers of the First Regiment, including H. C. Grinstead, the appointment of Colonel was first made to Col. Morris B. Belknap, who is now spending the summer on his farm near Wallace, N. H. Col. Belknap was unable to accept as he is away from his health this summer and at the following telegram: "Deeply appreciating the honor conveyed in your telegram of July 27, with much regret I cannot now join the worthy officers of the Legion in performing an important public service, strongly as it and their good comradeship appeal to me."

Four Officers Stay By Request of Major.

Frankfort, Ky., July 30.—It was announced by the Adjutant General's department today that several of the former officers of the First Regiment, who tendered their resignations to the department earlier in the week, requested the withdrawal of the resignations, and have applied for reinstatement in their commands.

These officers are Capt. Dan C. Cal. of Company H, Capt. Cal. of Company F, First Lieut. W. Company F, and First Lieut. Lausen, Company K, all of the Second Battalion.

The resignations were accepted last Wednesday. On Thursday, Major Krieger, acting by their request and cheerfully as their superior, sent to the authorities, Frankfort a letter requesting that the order accepting the resignations be revoked, on the ground of their efficiency as officers. Late yesterday afternoon an order was received in Louisville from the Adjutant General's office revoking the acceptance of their resignation; so they remain on the roster.

FRANK CAIN GOES TO THE STATE UNIVERSITY
Appointed After Standing A Very Excellent Examination.

Frank D. Cain, of Morton's Gap goes to the State University at Lexington this year. Mr. Cain rather unexpectedly entered the examination required and made very excellent grades in all the subjects required. Based on this examination he has received one of the three appointments due Hopkins county this year and will enter the University as a "Sophomore" the second week in September. He will continue his studies in the engineering course.

SENATOR BRADLEY EXPLAINS

Leaf Tobacco Amendment Is No Hardship on Anyone.

KEEPING BOOK RECORD IS A NECESSARY DETAIL.

Washington, July 31.—Senator Bradley today made the following statement: "Under the leaf tobacco amendment the farmer or producer has perfect freedom to sell his leaf tobacco in the hand to whom he chooses without payment of any tax. Retailers will be required to register with the Collector of the district, their name or style or place of residence, trade or business, and the place where such trade business is to be carried on. This can be done simply by a letter to the Collector and upon receipt of the answer thereto, and the rules prescribed for keeping books, they can proceed to sell, and may sell leaf tobacco in the hand raised in the United States, to any person in any quantity less than a hoghead, except a manufacturer of tobacco, snuff or cigars, without the payment of any tax. If one fails to register he is subject to a fine of $50. He is required to keep a book and enter therein daily, his purchases of leaf tobacco and his sales, where such sales amount to two pounds or more, to one person in one day. Such record shall be kept written up to date in such a form and containing such entries as shall be prescribed by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, and such books shall be kept open at all times for the inspection of any internal revenue officer or agent. He is required under regulations prescribed as aforesaid, to furnish on demand to any internal revenue officer or authorized agent of the Treasury Department, a true and correct statement verified by his oath or affirmation of all sales in one day with the name and residence of the person to whom sold, with the quality sold. "If the retailer wilfully refuses to furnish such information or to keep the book, or knowingly makes any false statements or false entries in such book he is liable to a fine of $50 for each offence. "The keeping of the book is simple, as also the making of the written statement, and will require but little trouble, as small sales under two pounds will not have to be entered. "There has been much criticism of the bill by persons who were misled by the fact that the ten-pound limit in the amendment as passed in the Senate was omitted from the bill, and the further fact that the portion of the bill requiring the farmer to keep a book, as under the McKinley law, was stricken from the present bill. "The argument that there is no more reason why memorandum of sales of tobacco should be kept than sales of corn is utterly misleading. Corn is not taxed, but tobacco is. Manufacturers of tobacco, snuff and cigars are taxed and if there were no steps taken by which the sales of leaf could be traced, such sales would open the door to fraud. There is much cigar tobacco raised in the United States, and those who manufacture cigars, if no trace of the sales of leaf were required, could fill their depleted cigar boxes with fresh cigars from time to time and thus escape detection and defraud the Government. It is true that no cigar tobacco is raised in Kentucky, but the bill could not be made applicable to Kentucky alone, but necessarily embraced the whole country. So far as corn is concerned the regulations make it impossible for the distiller to use it in making whisky without being detected by reason of the strict rules applicable to the same."

ELECTRICAL STORM CAUSES

LOSS AT MORTON'S GAP.

House Burned, Church Belfry Struck and Mule Killed.

Friday night last, a little after 7 o'clock a heavy electric and rain storm broke over Earlington and vicinity that brought terror to the timid, a splendid rain to the dry earth and coolness and purification to the atmosphere. It gathered in the North, swerved around to the East and came upon us from the Southeast.

No damage was done here. At Morton's Gap, however, four miles south, an empty house on Lake street in the South end of town, was struck by lightning and burned; the Baptist church belfry was struck and damaged to the amount of perhaps $30.00; and a mule belonging to Mrs. Dave Morton was killed by another stroke. The elements were a little too lively to make the Morton's Gap people happy for the time being. Mr. M. Cain says he believes they had four inches of rainfall, and that's raining "some."

The house that was burned was worth about $400 and was owned by the St. Bernard Mining Co.

PRESS DAY AT LEXINGTON

Kentucky Editors to be Guests of Blue Grass Fair Management on Friday, August 13

The editors of all papers in Kentucky and their wives have been invited by the management to be guests at the big Blue Grass Fair at Lexington on Friday, August 13th. The Fair opens on the ninth of August and continues throughout the week. The editors are given to understand that they will be welcome any day that they may choose to attend, but especial attention will be devoted to them on Friday, the 13th, which will be known as Kentucky Press Day.

Besides the usual courtesies in the way of tickets of admittance and opportunity to see the excellent shows that will be provided, the editors and their ladies will be guest of secretary J. J. Shouse, for luncheon. Mr. Shouse has been a newspaper man for a number of years and this compliment he is paying the press of the State will be cordially appreciated.

A. D. Miller, of the Richmond Chimes, vice-President of the Kentucky Press Association, has been named as chairman of the day and the invitation has come through him. On the committee with Mr. Miller, he has selected Ed. D. Shinnick, Shelbyville; Jon. S. Lawrence, Cadiz; R. J. McBryde, Jr., Louisville; Wm. Remington, Paris; H. P. Summers, Smiths Grove; Chas. W. Metcalf, Pineville; Paul M. Moore, Earlington; Harry McCarty, Nicholasville.

A local reception committee on behalf of Lexington has been appointed, with Desha Breckinridge, of the Lexington Herald, as chairman. Altogether every preparation has been made to add to the comfort and pleasure of the newspaper men on Press Day at the big Blue Grass Fair.

REPUBLICAN CONVENTIONS.

Official Call Fixes August 14 and 16 for Precinct and County.

The Republicans of Hopkins county are earnestly requested to meet at their several voting precincts on Saturday, August 14, 1909, at 2 o'clock p. m., to select delegates to the county convention to be held at Madisonville, Ky., the following Monday, August 16, 1909, at one o'clock p. m.

In addition to nominating a county ticket the delegates chosen at said convention will nominate a candidate for Representative in the next General Assembly of Kentucky. And the delegates from each magisterial district will choose candidates for magistrate and constable. The basis of representation will be one delegate for every fifty and a fraction above twenty-five votes cast for President Taft at the election in 1908, but in no event shall any precinct be denied representation, which will entitle the following precincts to the following number of delegates: White Plains 2; Nortonville 1; Morton's Gap 3; St. Charles 5; Dalton 2; Lake Earlington 4; North East Earlington 4; Barnsley 1; Court House 3; Elk 4; Anton 2; East Hanson 2; West Hanson 1; Old Salem 1; North Nebo 2; South Nebo 2; Silent Run 1; Charleston 2; Dawson 3; Lisle 4; Mill 4; Kitchen 3; Manitou 1; Richland 1; Ashbysburg 2; and Hecla 5.

Respectfully,
J. B. HARVEY, Chm. Com.
JOHN X. TAYLOR, Sec. of Com.

HIS SEVENTY-FIRST BIRTHDAY.

Veteran of Civil War and Survivor of Andersonville Prison.

Col. R. W. Wood, a respected old citizen of Earlington and Hopkins county, celebrated his seventy-first birthday Monday. Mr. Wood passed through unusual hardships in his career, having served through the Civil War and fourteen months in Andersonville prison under the awful conditions that prevailed in that death house. But in spite of this and a life spent in active labor he is now in a condition of health that would be considered excellent but for some physical disabilities which resulted from the hardships through which he has passed. Mr. Wood expresses his usual cheerful thankfulness that he lives and enjoys a fair degree of health. That he does so may be attributed to a life of temperance in all things from his youth up. He was born in Paisley, Scotland, within a few miles of Glasgow, and came with his father to Philadelphia when a child. Later the family came to Evansville, Ind., where the father died sixty years ago. Forty years ago Mr. Wood was a citizen of Madisonville and a leader in church and other good works. He has lived here for some twenty-five years.

Goes to Relief of Peary.

St. Johns, N. F., Aug. 3.—The Peary relief expedition sailed this afternoon on the schooner Jeanie. The vessel is bound for Etah, Greenland, to secure any dispatches that may have been left there by the Arctic explorer and to restock his station there with provisions.

$500 REWARD FOR NUTTALL.

Gov. Willson Acts Promptly When Henry County Sheriff Reports.

REWARD LARGER THAN IS USUALLY OFFERED.

Frankfort, Ky., July 31.—With a price of $500 on his head, Dr. W. L. Nuttall, of Henry county, for a year the trusted head of the Institute for the Feeble Minded here in Frankfort, is now really a fugitive from justice. Gov. Willson to-day offered a reward of $500 for the capture of Dr. Nuttall. Gov. Willson has said he would do everything in his power to secure the arrest of Dr. Nuttall, and to-day he took the first step. The reward is a large one, larger than is usually offered, but Gov. Willson says he believes this to be a case where the reward should be a large one. The reward was not offered until after the Henry county officials had returned the warrant marked "not found in Henry county." Then Judge James Polsgrove, County Judge of Franklin county, asked the Governor to offer a reward. This was the first thing done this morning when the Governor reached Frankfort from Louisville. The following is a copy of the reward offered:

The Reward.

Commonwealth of Kentucky.—Executive Department.—Whereas, it has been made known to me by the Judge of the Franklin County Court that Dr. W. L. Nuttall stands charged in said county with detaining a woman against her will, to-wit, Vady Austin, an inmate of the Feeble-Minded Institution, and is now a fugitive from justice, going at large; and,

Whereas, the said Judge has recommended that a reward be offered for the apprehension of said fugitive;

Now know ye, that by virtue of the authority vested in me by law, I do hereby offer a reward of $500 for the apprehension of the said Dr. W. L. Nuttall and his delivery to the jailer of Franklin county.

In testimony whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the Commonwealth to be hereunto affixed.

Done at Frankfort this 31st day of July, 1909.

AUGUSTUS E. WILLSON,
By the Governor.
BEN L. BRUNER,
Secretary of State.
JACKSON MORRIS,
Assistant Secretary of State.

Miss Alice Miller's School Moved.

The August number of the Tokyo Christian tells of the moving of Miss Alice Miller's school in that city to a new lot "on the wide road that leads to the Exposition." The Bee has noted in the past that this school was in the section of Tokyo that would need to be moved in the city's preparation for the great Japanese Exposition some time hence. Miss Miller hopes to have the school ready to begin work in September.

JOHN MAGANN IS PARDONED

Charged With Killing J. D. Wood and Brother At Central City.

GOVERNOR BELIEVED MAGANN BRAVE OFFICER ON DUTY.

Frankfort, Ky., July 31.—Full and free pardon was granted this afternoon by Governor Willson to John Magann, Central City, who shot and killed John Wood and James D. Wood, the latter former leader of the organized miners of Western Kentucky. Magann was tried for the killing of one of the Woods and convicted of manslaughter, being sentenced to penitentiary for two years. The Court of Appeals granted him a new trial at the last term of court, and Gov. Willson there is no need to put Magann to the necessity of undergoing another trial. Magann was a member of the Western Kentucky National Guard and was on the depot platform at Central City and Wood's brother was also killed in the fight. Considerable feeling resulted from the killings, and the case attracted much attention on account of the presence in labor circles of J. D. Wood. At one time he was practically the boss of the miners of Western Kentucky, and they did what he wanted to do.

"In the matter of the application for the pardon of John Magann, on two indictments returned in the Muhlenberg Circuit Court, one for the willful murder of J. D. Wood and the murder of John Wood.

"I have read all of the papers in this case appealed to the Court of Appeals, and I should have granted the application and pardoned John Magann at the time, but for the fact that he had taken an appeal to the Court of Appeals, and I did not wish to interfere with its consideration of the case, but to show the co-ordinate departments the courtesy justly due to it.

"I have no doubt whatever that John Magann was a brave, upright, honest and useful officer, simply doing his duty against lawlessness, desperate and dangerous men. The Court of Appeals reversed the judgment for manifest unfairness, and if I should insist on these cases being tried, it would simply result in great hardship to a man who has already exhausted his means, and through the kindness of his old mother, he means, in the defense of unjust indictments.

"Whenever an officer does his duty for the Commonwealth, especially under circumstances of such danger as those circumstances under which John Magann did his duty in this case, it is the duty of the Governor to uphold and protect him in it, and I, therefore, grant the application and grant a full and free pardon to John Magann, both of said indictments and direct that they be dismissed, and that he be released from further obligation to answer to either this 31st day of July, 1909.

"AUGUSTUS E. WILLSON,
Governor of Kentucky."

HOUSED BY NIGHT

RIDER THREATS.

Judge Harris, of Union City, Tenn., seeks refuge with family in St. Louis.

Nashville, Tenn., July 31.—A St. Louis dispatch says:

Harried by unceasing threats against his life, which time and again, has been jeopardized by the bullets of unseen enemies, Judge Harris, of Union City, Tenn., whose injunction against fishing in Reelfoot Lake formed the foundation of night-rider outrages, has sought refuge from his enemies in St. Louis.

He is registered at the American Hotel, and is accompanied by his wife and secretary, J. P. Abramson. While Judge Harris denied himself to visitors, his wife was not loth to say that it was owing to the unceasing threats of the night riders that he had come to this city.

During the past six months threat after threat was made against his life. He was in constant dread of assassination, but stuck to his post. So intense was the feeling against him from the night rider element that it was impossible for him to have a light in his house at night, and he and his son took turn about watching, a rifle on their knees.

Secure a Certificate.

Information as to the amount of work required for each certificate will be furnished when desired. Address H. H. Cherry, President, Western Normal, Bowling Green, Ky.

They Broke the Peace And Went to Lock-up.

Saturday night saw commendable activity on the part of Deputy Marshal Clarence Mitchell, the same sort of activity that is habitually exercised by our peace officers when the peace is disturbed in Earlington. It became necessary to suppress disorder in the neighborhood of the colored skating rink where officer Mitchell made five arrests. The offenders, all colored, were taken to the city lockup and later four of them plead guilty before Judge Newton to the charge of disorderly conduct. One young negro man received a slight knife wound in the row preceding the arrests but not enough to require any surgery. The officers admonished the managers of the colored rink that they must exact good order in the rink where, they say, this has not always been done.

Card of Thanks.

The members of the Klub Kentucky Band wish to thank the public for the patronage given them at their picnic and barbecue at Lakeside Park, July the 29th. Also they wish to thank, especially, the ladies who so kindly assisted them and the business men of the town who so cheerfully closed their place of business towards making the picnic a success. We also wish to thank the various business men and any others who contributed towards our uniform fund when called upon to do so by subscription.

We will endeavor by hard work to make our band in the future a credit to this town and by music rendered publicly, endeavor to repay each person for money and energy bestowed upon us.

Tag Day a Success.

A new and novel way of earning money was employed by the ladies of the M. E. Church, South, last Thursday, the occasion being the day of the Klub Kentucky picnic.

On strips of colored card board was printed, "Tag Day", the ladies and girls of the church were on the streets and in and out of homes and stores, holding the people up and tagging them, some several times, for any consideration they wished to give. The scheme, which has been used at other places, was pleasing and successful beyond the ladies' expectation. The sum made on Tag Day was more than forty-seven dollars, which was added to the new church fund.

JOHN B. ROBINSON, GOES TO EASTERN KENTUCKY.

Takes Position as Superintendent of Logmont Coal Co., Near Middlesboro.

John B. Robinson, an Earlington boy with many friends hereabouts, has gone to the Eastern Kentucky coal field, where things in coal circles are livening up, to take charge as superintendent of the Sagamore Coal Company's mine at Logmont, Ky. Mr. Robinson left Earlington Tuesday, taking his family with him to Logmont, where he will reside. His engagement occurred during a recent trip to Middlesboro, at which time, it is reported, he was offered more than one other position with responsible coal people. The Logmont property was recently purchased by Mr. Murry, a prominent coal operator of that section, who will reopen the mine and spend enough money on it to bring it up-to-date. Important changes were outlined and agreed upon during Mr. Robinson's recent visit, and this work will begin at once.

Mr. Robinson is the youngest son of the late George Robinson, of this place, a man of long experience in mine management. The other sons are Ben W. and Ed F. The former was for years general manager of the St. Bernard Mining Co., and afterward managed very important coal properties in Mexico. He is living now on his farm at Malone, Mo. Ed F. Robinson is chief engineer of the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburg railroad, with headquarters at Rochester, N. Y. John B. Robinson has recently had charge of the mine owned by the Petersburg Coal Co., located at Mannington, which has not reached the point of production and has for some time lain idle.

VENEERED WOOD INDUSTRY SHOWS RAPID GROWTH

Red Gum Used More Than Any Other Wood For This Purpose.

Washington, July 31.—During the year 1908, there were cut in to veneer 382,542,000 feet b. m. of logs, valued at $7,435,000 in 1907, according to statistic just published by the Bureau of the Census in cooperation with the United States Forest Service.

Red gum, as in the preceding year, ranked first among the woods used for veneer, 119,945 feet being consumed, with a valuation of $1,272,096, forming a percentage of 31.4 of the total consumption. The demand for red gum was even greater than in 1907, when its percentage of the whole consumption was 29.5. Among other woods, with the exception of yellow pine, which shows an important increase, no great increase is noted.

The principal woods imported for the industry were mahogany and Spanish cedar. Of the former 11,487 feet were used, with a valuation of $1,478,364, as against 6,722 feet with a valuation of $839,695 in 1907.

DISPATCHING BY TELEPHONE.

Invention of "Selector" Telephone Has Great Possibilities for Railroads.

LEADING ROADS HAVE TESTED INSTRUMENT AND ARE PLEASED.

All Signals on a Division Can be Operated From Central Office.

New York, July 31.—There is every indication that the telegraph will be superseded by the telephone for dispatching on American railroads. The change has been contemplated for several years, but only with the invention of the "selector" has the change been made practicable. The result is the serious consideration by railroad superintendents of the telephone for immediate adoption. Already thirty of the principal roads have equipped parts of their lines with the selector telephone to test its efficiency for dispatching.

Some strong reason lie back of the proposed change. The most important of these is that when Judge Landis handed down his decision in favor of the nine-hour law for railroad employes, a demand was at once created for 15,000 additional operators, whose estimated salaries would aggregate $10,000,000.

A second reason is that the average telegraph operator is not as efficient as he should be, and that there is a decided shortage of good operators. This shortage will be augmented by the nine-hour law; less efficient operators will have to be employed, and as a result dispatching will be done with less safety and with greater loss of time.

Another reason for the telephone's superiority is demonstrated by conditions in Mexico, where the National Railways were tied up because of a strike by the American telegraph operators. Concerted action by telephone operators would be to no purpose, as a technical education is not necessary to operate a telephone and the places of strikers could be filled easily. Thus would be eliminated all probability of traffic prostration through a strike.

Another economical argument is also evident: untrained natives could be employed in the country districts with just as good, if not better, results than are to-day obtained by importing trained aliens (operators not native to the place). They would accept lower wages to live at home, and it is estimated by the leading railroads that a saving of 15 to 46 per cent. can be effected in this way.

Only with the invention of the selector has the telephone become applicable for dispatching. This instrument makes it possible for the central office to communicate with any one sub-office of its choice unknown to the others, although but a single set of wires is used. And the sub-offices, to communicate with each other, must do so through the central office, where the conversation is audible.

Eighty of the principal railroads of the country have been sounded with reference to their attitude towards the telephone as a successor to the telegraph. These include such roads as the Atchison, Canadian Pacific, Lackawanna and the Pennsylvania. A large majority declare themselves in favor of the change and fifty announce that an extension of their telephone systems already in operation is contemplated. These roads operate 211,581 miles of track and at present have 11,632 miles equipped for experimental purposes.

These figures show that serious consideration is being given the proposition by the majority of railroads, a majority which operates 70 per cent. of the mileage of the country and practically determines its railroad policy. It also shows the possibilities the selector has opened up and the extent of its influence in facilitating and safeguarding train operation.

It is the consensus of opinion that communication by telephone is four times as rapid as by telegraph; in fact, this has been proved in actual tests. Railroad superintendents also assert practically unanimously that the telephone is as safe, if not safer, than the older instrument. The advantages of direct personal communication are well expressed in the words of the operator when asked why he preferred the telephone: "If you and I were working together in an office and you had something to say to me you wouldn't write me a message telling me what you wanted done and then send it to me by telegraph; you would turn around and talk to me."

On the 11,632 miles already equipped there are 1,400 instruments in use. Before the telephone is universally used in America another 300,000 stations will have to be equipped.

A further adaption of the selector, proved possible by actual tests, is the operation of semaphores. Instead of being connected with a telephone circuit the instruments are used in connection with the electrically-controlled semaphores. With this system, all the signals on a division can be operated from the central dispatching office with a single set of wires.

It is evident that a great saving in time can be effected without sacrificing in the least the safety of operation; that, in fact, operation of trains can be carried on with greater safety than with the telegraph, that the saving in salaries can easily be great enough even to effect the market value of the companies' stocks, and that the power of strikers in tying up the service can be greatly minimized. The opinion of railroad experts is well summed up in the words of an assistant superintendent of the New York Central: "The dispatching of trains by telephone is now an established success, and we believe it is so far ahead of the Morse service as the telegraph was to the half-way post."

No Assays By Geological Survey.

Attention is called by the United States Geological Survey to the fact that it does not make analyses or assays of ores or metals for the public. Many specimens and samples are received by the Survey, accompanied by requests for such treatment, with which it is impossible to comply. The most that can be done in such cases is for the Survey geologists to give an offhand opinion based on a simple examination of the specimen; but if an assay is desired the proper course is to employ a private assayer or to send the specimen to one of the Government assay offices, where a regular charge is made for such work. When specimens are sent to the Survey for examination, applicants should be particular to state whether they wish them returned, otherwise they will be destroyed. Government assay offices are located at Carson, Nev.; Seattle, Wash.; Boise, Idaho; Helena, Mont.; Deadwood, S. Dak.; Salt Lake City, Utah; St. Louis, Mo.; Charlotte, N. C.; and New York, N. Y.

MINING NOTES.

Missouri's Coal Reserve.

The original coal supply of Missouri as estimated by M. R. Campbell, of the United States Geological Survey, was 40,000,000,000 short tons, including within an area of 16,700 square miles. The production of the State according to the best records available amounted at the close of 1908 to 100,935,421 short tons, representing an exhaustion of approximately 151,000,000 tons, or 1.4 per cent of the estimated original supply.

Coal Remains in West Virginia.

The total production of coal in West Virginia to the close of 1908 amounted to 477,096,382 short tons, equivalent to an exhaustion of 715,000,000 short tons. Estimates by I. C. White, state geologist, and M. R. Campbell, of the United States Geological Survey, based on recent study of the coal fields, place the original supply in west Virginia at 150,000,000,000 short tons. The apparent supply now available therefore amounts to 149,285,000,000 short tons, about 3,500 times the production of 1908 and 2,400 times the exhaustion represented by that production.

Advise West to Stock up Coal.

Chicago—Western and northwestern roads are suggesting to coal dealers the advisability of replenishing their stock before the heavy grain traffic in the fall and winter begins.

The Geological survey's report shows that the percentage of decrease in the coal production of West Virginia for the year 1908 was less than in Pennsylvania, Maryland, Alabama and Ohio. Only four mines reported a suspension during the year due to labor trouble. The report says: "Another reason why the percentage of decrease in West Virginia was less than in the States named is the fact that, except in the Kanawha district, few of the miners in the State have organized and there was no suspension of operations pending the adjustment of the wage scale. Although some vigorous attempts have been made from time to time to organize the coal miners of West Virginia, most of the mines continue to be operated on either the 'open shop' or the nonunion basis, though many of the mines in the Kanawha region have for several years been operated under agreement with the miners' union."

The ten-hour day prevails in most of the mines, 403, employed 39,550 men, working ten hours a day in 1908; 180 mines, employing 14,425 men, worked nine hours, and 30 mines, employing 1,242 men, worked eight hours.

Coal Trade in Central West.

Chicago, July 31.—The Black Diamond says that the coal trade shows greater strength, with the exception of screenings. The Chicago market gets around the corner after a long pull. Western coal shows such increases in demand to justify stronger quotations. Chesapeake & Ohio and Norfolk & Western report car shortage.

Of the dozen or more recent strikes only the Philadelphia car strike resulted in material gain to the strikers. In many cases the effect has been permanent dismissal and actual want. If workman would write down the profit and loss on strike account from the beginning of labor troubles to the present time they would be appalled at the balance on the wrong side.—Exchange.

The Canadian Government conciliation board refuses to recognize the United Mine Workers of America in its report on the labor differences at the collieries at Spring Hill, Halifax. The board says it does not express an opinion as to such recognition, and that the matter ought to be left to the discretion of the coal companies.

Bearing Our Own Burdens.

In the moment of stress into which a new grief or a great anxiety plunges all human folk now and then, it is quite natural to blab out our woeful story to the nearest listener. In nine cases out of ten the recipients of our confidences do not care. They listen with curiosity instead of sympathy and consider one a bally fool for telling all one knows. Heartaches wear out, just as physical wounds heal. We have but to wait in patience and silence. This is the stronger and better way.

Famed Buddhist Temple Destroyed.
An area of over four miles square, containing some of the city's hand-somest structures, including the Buddhist temple, the largest in the world, was entirely burned over before the fire was brought under control. The stock exchange, which was one of the most important in this country, was entirely destroyed. This loss, it is believed, will tend considerably to dislocate the business of Osaka, which, with its manufacturing concerns, is one of the chief commercial cities of Japan.

CALLED TO DOOR AND SHOT

H. C. Hamilton, Manager of a Flour-mill, Neb., Saw Mill Assassinated by Unknown Man.

Omaha, Neb., Aug. 2.—H. C. Hamilton, manager of a saw mill at Florence, a suburb north of the city, was called to his front door and shot and killed late Saturday night by an unknown man. Hamilton and a mill employee were sleeping at the farmer's office in the mill and were awakened by two men who said they wished to talk to Hamilton regarding lumber bill. When Hamilton appeared at the door one of the men fired three shots into his body from the effects of which he died almost instantly. The dead man was 50 years of age and is not known to have had an enemy. Although search has been made for the murderer no clue has been secured.

Flood Responsibility Fixed.

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 3.—Responsibility for the Salton sea floods of 1905 and 1906 has finally been fixed by the United States circuit court of appeals. The ruling affirms the decision of the district court in the case of the California Development company against the New Liverpool Salt company which holds that the intakes constructed by the development company were improperly built.

Workmen Preferred Meal First.

Clinton, Mass., Aug. 3.—Two women workmen who are touring the state by bicycle had an open air meeting here. The four speakers attempted to detain the employees of some of the mills as they left for their noon hour, but being unsuccessful, postponed the meeting until the working people returned shortly before 1 o'clock. Brief speeches were then made and reading matter distributed. The speakers were listened to with quiet respect.

NO REASON FOR IT.

When Earlington Citizens Show the Certain Way Out.

There can be no just reason why any reader of this will continue to suffer the tortures of an aching back, the annoyance of urinary disorders, the dangers of diabetes of any kidney ills when relief is so near at hand and the most positive proof given that they can be cured. Read what an Earlington citizen says:

John Franklin, Earlington, Ky., says: "For three years my kidneys were disordered. When I stooped or lifted, sharp twinges darted through my loins and there was an almost constant pain in the small of my back. I tired easily, frequently suffered from headaches and was also bothered by dizzy spells. I was caused additional annoyance by too frequent passages of the kidney secretions, it being necessary for me to arise several times during the night. I finally procured Doan's Kidney Pills and received such prompt relief from their use that I continued taking them until completely cured. I cannot recommend Doan's Kidney Pills too highly."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Degrees of Pain.

Pain is a general term. A pain which is local and of short duration is a twinge. If local and continuous, it is an ache. A long, torment and the like, when not merely hysteria of overstatement, is employed to designate the degrees of pain.

Veteran's Problem

Difficult Question For Young Man To Solve

By JOHN A. HOWLAND.

YOUNG men, middle aged men and old men have been interested alike in the problem of the "old man" in business. The specific complaint of the old man is that he is not wanted. Modern business admits the fact. But young men and men in the prime of their lives must grow old. What are the young men and the men of middle age going to do about it?

It is not likely that in any near future the methods of modern business will so change that the old man, per se, will be more in demand than he is now. Economic philosophies are to the effect that in general the man who has grown old ought to have a competence upon which to retire. Cold, hard facts that are indisputable show how impossible this is.

"What did you do with your money?" is the implied question turned upon the old man who must have something to do in order to live.

"Why, I never had any money in my life," may be the answer of that honest, earnest, capable, best man that ever worked hard all his life, honestly and earnestly.

Money too often is the mark of dishonesty and unfaithfulness in the individual who has most of it. Crookedness fails, often; but too often it succeeds, and as a rule success isn't questioned. Failures must submit to the interrogations and the cross-examinations and the measurements, and the sharpest, closest of all such inquisitions is that imposed upon the old man.

But the present bearing of the old man problem is upon the young man. What can the young man do to anticipate that old age condition when he may be in the "not wanted" class? He must anticipate age. Why not anticipate the condition which has come upon so many old men in the past?

"What is that work in which I may work longest without the infliction of the age penalty?" may be a live question for this potential old man of the future.

Probably in the vast majority of cases where earnest, honest men have worked at a chosen work that old age problem is met if, until the end, the worker is privileged to work. To die in the harness is by thousands considered an ideal ending of an ideal life. Accumulated money and idle ease have shortened thousands of lives at the expense of contentment. For this type of man it is a certainty that ability and opportunity to work until the end must satisfy. What, then, shall the young man choose—if he can—promising him that longest independent usefulness?

To answer the question for himself naturally depends upon the individual and the thousand and one characteristics and tastes and equipments of the man for the work he may choose. A young man may have that sole desire to become a locomotive engineer, for example. He has the physical frame to more than stand the test of fireman apprenticeship. He may have the nerve and judgment and sobriety and sanity for the ideal man in the locomotive cab. But what if his eyesight is bad and the chances are that it may grow worse? Could the young man do a more foolish thing than to persist in his intentions to run a locomotive? Failing eyesight is that greatest of all bugbears of the locomotive engineer, growing old in the service. Every other qualification may be left him, but failing of the eye test he must step down and out.

Question of Right to Bear Arms

By JAMES A. WOOLSON

have that safeguard they provide that "the right to bear arms shall not be infringed."

Few men will go so far as to insist that under that section a city may not require registration of persons carrying revolvers, nor, indeed, to require them to show that their business is such as to make carrying a pistol a necessity.

Those of good character and whose work is such that personal protection is required are granted permits without undue delay. Those who cannot show cause to the satisfaction of the department of police are refused and every reasonable man will approve of the action of the general superintendent of police in withholding his sanction to an indiscriminate practice of revolver carrying.

At all events, the constitution cannot be made to approve of such practice.

Killing of Wild Animals a Pleasure

By JANE C. COLE

One of the climbers replied, "There are some humans I could shoot easier than a deer," to the utter amazement of the ranchmen. They shouldered their "trusty cameras" and climbed the mountain.

But death outright is more humane than life in small cages, carted about the country with the circus, living in the most unnatural way.

In the old geography there was an opening sentence: "The earth was made for man." But was it? Have all these creatures no right of existence? With man's safety and welfare he may destroy, but to the lowest type of sport.

THOUSANDS MADE HOMELESS BY FIRE

AREA OF OVER FOUR MILES SQUARE ENTIRELY BURNED IN OSAKA, JAPAN.

20,000 BUILDINGS DESTROYED

Insurance Companies Fail as a Result of Heavy Losses—Casualties Not Determined—Hospitals Crowded.

Osaka, Japan, Aug. 2.—Confusion still prevails here as a result of Saturday's disastrous fire. Thousands of persons are homeless and hunger is staring many of them in the face.

A system of relief has been organized by the municipal authorities, but it is inadequate to supply all needs. Outside cities and towns are generously sending in contributions to be used in alleviating the sufferings of the homeless and destitute.

The number of casualties has not yet been determined, but hundreds of injured persons are crowding the hospitals.

The latest estimates are that twenty thousand buildings were destroyed, these including banks, the stock exchange, the museum, government edifices and factories. While at present it is impossible accurately to state the losses, these are given roughly at several million yen. It is feared that some of the insurance companies will fail as a result of the heavy losses they will have to pay.

Flames Spread Rapidly.

The conflagration lasted more than twenty-five hours and the burned section presents a deplorable sight. The streets of the city are very narrow and the houses were mostly of wood construction. Under a strong breeze, therefore the buildings were easy prey for the flames which jumped from one to another with great rapidity. Once hope was almost abandoned that the conflagration could be arrested, the firemen fought valiantly against the odds of lack of water and high wind and many of them fell unconscious while working bravely at their posts. Had not the water supply been curtailed by the existing drought it is believed the fire could have been kept under control. The firemen fought valiantly against the odds.

The belongings of the people who were able to save anything from their burning homes are piled in great heaps along the railroad tracks from Osaka to Kobe, where they were removed early Saturday morning when the fire broke out. All day long Saturday and far into the night the

New Oliver No. 5

Sets Swiftest Pace Ever
Known in Typewriter Selling.

The wonderful new model Oliver No. 5, has taken the market by storm. Its reception by the public has exceeded in enthusiasm anything we had dared to anticipate.

Employers and stenographers alike have welcomed it as the one machine that answers the multiplied need of the hour.

The cry is for Speed! Speed! Speed!—and the Oliver responds.

The demand for Durability is filled by the sturdy, steel-clad Oliver. To call for a writing machine that will do many things and do each of them equally well, the Oliver answers with its unexampled versatility.

Its visible writing saves the strain on eye and brain.

Its legibility lends beauty to its work. The letters that bear the Oliver imprint are the letters that seem to speak.

Oliver No. 5 fairly bristles with new and exclusive time-and-saving features. We have space to mention only a few of the more important ones.

—Disappearing Indicator shows exact printing point.

—Balance Shifting Mechanism saves operative effort.

—Fine Ruling Device is fine for tabulated work.

—Double Release doubles convenience.

—Non-Vibrating Base insures stability. Yet with all of those added improvements, we have still further simplified the Oliver by fusing brains with metal.

Oliver No. 5 is a dream come true,—the dream of Thomas Oliver crystallized into this wonderful mechanism of shining steel that embodies very possible requirement of a perfect writing machine.

Ask the nearest Oliver agent for a Free Demonstration of Oliver No. 5. Or send for The Oliver Book—yours for a postal.

Poisons Dangerous to Make.

A good many poisons are dangerous to manufacture. Mercuric methide, for instance, brings madness to those who work too long at making it. A gas rises from it that is not immediately fatal, but which causes temporary insanity, which may, of course, become permanent.

One of the World's Great Rivers.
The Nelson river may be described as one of the greatest rivers of the world as regards the actual volume of water discharged into the Hudson bay. Its total length is approximately 400 miles, and the drainage area is tremendous. Its tributaries cover the whole of Manitoba, the greater portion of Alberta, Saskatchewan, North Dakota and Ontario west of the Great Lakes, where they also enter Montana and Minnesota.

Woes of London Police.
Every observing Londoner must have noticed the haggard appearance of the police. Your modern London policeman has no time for steak and midnight soporifics. The shaded area knows his bulky form no more; alas! there is no bulky form to know.—London Sketch.

Seared With A Hot Iron.
or scalded by overturned kettle—cut with a knife—bruised by slammed door—injured by gun or in any other way—the thing needed at once is Bucklen's Arnica Salve to subdue inflammation and kill the pain. It's earth's supreme healer, infallible for Boils, Ulcers, Fever Sores, Eczema and Piles. 25c. at all drug stores.

A Crippled Organ.
Alfred at the window watching an old organ grinder with an old-fashioned, stick-propped barrel organ, and listening to the dulcet strains of "Home, Sweet Home," suddenly exclaims: "Poor old organ! She's only got one leg!"

Constipation causes headache, nausea, dizziness, languor, heart palpitation. Drastic purgatives grip, sicken, weaken the bowels and don't cure. Doan's Reglets act gently and cure constipation. 25 cents. Ask your druggist.

It is impossible to thrive on vegetables alone. They must be supplemented by eggs, cheese, Italian pastes, such as macaroni, brown bread, good salad oil, butter, nuts, cereals, pulse.

Cured Hay Fever and Summer Cold
A. S. Nusbaum, Batesville, Indiana, writes: "Last year I suffered three months with a summer cold so distressing that it interfered with my business. I had many of the symptoms of hay fever, and a doctor's prescription did not reach my case, and I took several medicines which seemed only to aggravate it. Fortunately I insisted upon having Foley's Honey and Tar. It quickly cured me. My wife has since used Foley's Honey and Tar with the same success." For chronic coughs and lung trouble it has no equal. Refuse substitutes.

Cistern Water.
Impure and bad smelling cistern water is often caused by the growth within it of microscopic plants called algae. Sulphate of copper will quickly kill these germs, and any other germs. The common name is blue vitrol. Try it in stock tanks, also, which have green scum in them. A piece the size of a grain of wheat will be enough for a barrel of water.

A Wayside Observation.
"What I want you to immediately do," said the woman with a determined look, "is to unceremoniously pick up that ax and before eating this lunch to carefully split some wood." "Alas!" exclaimed Piddling Pete, "how unreasonable some women are! They think wood is as easily split as an infinitive."

Disagreeable at Home.
Lots of men and women who are agreeable with others, get "cranky" at home. It's not disposition, it's the liver. If you find in yourself that you feel cross around the house, little things worry you, just buy a bottle of Ballard's Herbine and put your liver in shape. You and everybody around you will feel better for it. Price 50 cents per bottle.

SIZE OF BUT LITTLE MOMENT

The Most Deadly and Destructive Foes of Mankind Are of Minute Proportion.

In one of Herbert Wells' brilliant stories the terribly scientific and practically invincible Martians who have invaded the earth and conquered England are stopped in the midst of their victories and utterly destroyed by the attacks of microscopic foes. Infinitely small organisms, germs of disease, which man has become in some degree immune, slay the wonderful warriors of a planet never invaded by these earth foes. What the greatest battleships and the heaviest guns could not do the unseen and unknown living seeds of death accomplish.

More clearly every day the world understands that in the life and affairs of mankind the most deadly and destructive foes are extremely small. All of the fierce mammals and poisonous serpents of Africa do not kill as many human beings in ten years as the tsetse fly slays in one. The tigers and cobras of India kill their thousands every year, but the rats which spread the germs of the bubonic plague destroy their tens of thousands. In this country the common house fly undoubtedly causes more deaths than all the venomous snakes, wild beasts, mad dogs, runaway horses and all-tempered bulls, ten times over. The actual proportion is probably much higher than ten to one.

TROUBLE FOR BOYISH KNIGHT

Unfeeling Police Officer Arrested Youth in the Act of Kissing Away Sweetheart's Tears.

It's a pity a boy can't kiss away his sweetheart's tears without a big, unsympathetic policeman taking them both to the children's court, the New York Evening Telegram says.

Any fellow would have acted just as Jacob Kinsler did, especially if he was as fond of his sweetheart as Jacob is of Susie Stahl. Jacob is a manly little chap of 15 and Susie, two years his junior, is one of the prettiest little girls on the east side.

"We wasn't regular kissing," explained Jacob. "I'll tell you how it was. A boy nearly twice as big as I am came along and slapped Susie and she began to cry."

"Why didn't you tackle him?" asked the court.

"He was too big for me to lick, and I let him go. But I did the next best thing. Susie was crying somepin fierce, and I just grabbed her and was kissing away her tears when the cop came along and said I was violating the law. I didn't know what he meant, and as Susie kept on crying I kept on kissing. Then the cop stepped up."

"He didn't believe doctors endorsed it," said Jacob. "I would not offer them to you."

"WELL—LOOK WHO'S HERE!"

THAW USED WHIP TO PUNISH GIRLS

SLAYER LASHED GIRLS ON BARE ARMS AND BODIES, DECLARED WITNESS.

EVELYN HEARS WOMAN'S STORY

$25,000 Was Paid as Price of Silence to "Keep Them From Bothering Thaw's Wife and Mother"—One Gets $7,000.

White Plains, N. Y., July 28.—Harry K. Thaw sat in the supreme court here and heard a woman's testimony that made his pallid face flush. He saw a pearl handled dog whip exhibited and he heard the witness swear that she had seen him wield it on the bare flesh of young girls. The prisoner's wife, Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, heard most of the testimony, which was of such a nature that Justice Mills preceded its presentation with the warning that "no woman should stay in the court room unless she is willing to hear everything." Two girls left the room.

The witness was Miss Susan Merrill, a Duxon, pink cheeked woman of about 35 years, and she opened a new chapter in the life of Stanford White's slayer. She told of alleged acts of his between 1902 and 1905 when he was a young bachelor about New York before the tragedy in the Madison Square roof garden that resulted in his being placed in the state asylum for the criminal insane from which he is now trying to escape by proving himself sane.

Brought Many Girls to Room.

Her testimony was in marked contrast to that of two alienists who went on the stand and gave Thaw's clean bill of health, declaring that in their opinion he was sane. Summarized, her testimony was that during the three years named she kept in succession two New York lodging houses where Thaw rented rooms under assumed names and to which he brought at various times more than 200 girls. After Thaw's imprisonment, she said, she paid these women at least $25,000 as the price of their silence and to keep them from bothering Thaw's wife or his mother. One of them, who, she said, passed as Thaw's wife, received $7,000. The money came from Thaw.

After telling of Thaw's engaging rooms, the bearing of the evidence upon the question of the prisoner's mental condition became apparent. For at this point the mysterious package which was brought to court yesterday by Clifford W. Eartridge, Thaw's former counsel, was unwrapped, and a pearl handled whip, about three feet long, was brought into view. With this before the eyes of court and spectators the woman related a series of stories about finding Thaw on several occasions lashing the girls upon their bare arms and bodies.

Posed as Theatrical Agent.

Thaw, she said, had posed as a theatrical agent and had lured the girls to his room with promises of engagements. When she remonstrated with him, she testified, his excuse was that the girls "weren't smart enough and couldn't fill their positions and deserved a beating." She testified further that Thaw had frequently behaved in a violent manner in her presence and that she considered his acts irrational.

TARIFF BILL TO BE LAW IN TEN DAYS

PRESIDENT WILL SIGN PERFECTED MEASURE AS SUBMITTED BY CONFERENCE.

CONFEREES STRUGGLED 21 DAYS

Executive Forced Cut in Lumber, Iron Ore, Coal, Leather and Hosiery—Hides on Free List—Canal Bond Issue Authorized.

Washington, July 31.—The new tariff bill, submitted to the house in its perfected form, will be accepted by congress, go to President Taft for his signature and become a law within the next week or 10 days, according to the general prediction made here.

Statesmen and lobbyists base their forecasts upon the victory of the president over the conference committee. His threat of a veto, transmitted to the conferees in a written message, ended the last phases of the tariff struggle and forced Republicans to drive from the room the Democratic conferees, who had been invited in for the first time since the conference began.

Taft Calls Revision Downward.

Although the president is not thoroughly satisfied with the bill, he believes it is in the main a revision downward as promised by the Republican party platform and his own campaign speeches. He was in a happy mood over the amicable adjustment of the differences that have prevailed in the committee and told a number of his callers he was glad he had had something to do with the preparation of the bill, and would sign it if passed by congress as presented.

The president regards the bill in its present shape as a very great improvement over the Dingley law. In the first place the Philippine tariff, for which he has fought unremittingly for 10 years, is to be enacted into law. There is the corporation tax, the customs court, the maximum and minimum and the provision for the tariff commission.

Reductions Procured by Taft.

Items in the tariff bill so hotly disputed and upon which President Taft exercised dominating influence, as finally adjusted, now provide:

One dollar and twenty-five cents a thousand on rough lumber, with the senate differentials on dressed. Fifteen cents a ton on iron ore. Forty-five cents a long ton on coal. Hides free, and a reduced leather schedule.

Three grades of hosiery are manufactured in this country. The value is approximately $1. $1.50 and $2 a dozen. These three grades are increased 20 per cent over the Dingley rates. The rates on all other grades of hose go back to the Dingley figures.

To Issue Canal Bonds.

Some of the important provisions in the bill are: A Panama Canal bond issue of $290,569,000 is authorized.

A tax of 1 per cent on the entire net income of corporations above $5000 a year is provided for.

The authorized issue of treasury certificates for money borrowed to meet public expenditures is increased from $100,000,000 to $200,000,000.

A customs court, with five judges at $10,000 each a year, is provided for, with a special assistant attorney-general at $10,000, a deputy at $7500, and four assistants at $5000 each to represent the government in cases arising under the tariff law.

Free trade with the Philippines is authorized, with limitations on the quantity of sugar, tobacco and cigars to come in free.

The president is empowered to negotiate reciprocity treaties.

A Quaint Tract.
A quaint tract entitled "Woe to Drunkards," being a sermon by Samuel Wald, preacher, of Ipswich, was printed in London in 1627. The preacher based his remarks upon Proverbs xxiii, 29-32 ("Look not thou upon the wine when it is red," etc.), and illustrated his arguments by examples from various parts of the kingdom of "God's judgments on drunkards." Among other instances he quotes the following one from Tenby: "At Tenby, in Pembroke-shire, a drunkard being exceedingly drunk broke himself all to pieces off an high and steep rock in most fearful manner, and yet the occasion and circumstances of his fall so ridiculous as I think not fit to relate, lest in so serious a judgement I should move laughter of the Reader."

The Backwoods School.

Poor old schoolhouse, long since become scattered ashes! Poor little backwoods academicians, driven in about sunrise, driven out toward dusk! Poor little tired backs with nothing to lean against! Poor little bare feet that could never reach the floor! Poor little droop-headed figures, so sleepy in the long summer days, so afraid to fall asleep! Long, long since, little children of the past, your backs have become straight enough, measured on the same cool bed; sooner or later your feet, wherever wandering, have found their resting places in the soft earth; and all your drooping heads have gone to sleep on the same dreamless pillow, and there are sleeping.—James Lane Allen.

Accounting for It.

Outgoing heads of the government departments sometimes make a few "personal" promotions upon the eve of their departure, and a clerk in the department of agriculture, believing that Secretary Wilson would go the way of the rest of the Roosevelt cabinet, ventured to approach him with a little plea for special recognition.

"I have been in the department since the time you were first made secretary, sir," the clerk began. "I know it—I know it," the secretary said, waving him away. "Every one knows I am a very patient and considerate man."—Harper's Weekly.

Expelled for Cause.

Mrs. Dorcas—Why did you expel her from the Women's club?

Mrs. Learned—She proposed a motion that, instead of engaging a professor of Hindu philosophy, we should hire some one to teach us how to get into a cab, how to sharpen a pencil and how to carry an umbrella in a crowd.

Word from Br'er Williams.

"De race has got ter rise an' hustle if it ever hopes ter git dar," said Brother Williams. "Too many thinks dat all dey got ter do is ter go ter sleep in de hot sun an' rise up an' eat watermelons in de shade."—Atlanta Constitution.

JOHN HAY'S SENSE OF HUMOR

Statesman Was Exceptionally Gifted In This Respect, According to Biographer.

Few of our public men have had a more delicate or delicious humor, couched in an unusual way with a keen and cutting wit. We are fortunate in the preservation of so many of his addresses. Speaking of his frequent opportunities for talking in England, Mr. Hay wrote to a friend: "You never saw a people so willing and eager to be bored as these blessed John Bulls. If I were of the Neronic type, which takes delight in human anguish, I could make a speech every night the year round. But I refrain—being merciful and lazy."

Of a candidate for the presidency, he said: "There seems no limit to his eager credulity. He seems able to believe anything—all he asks is that it shall be incredible." The man's party characterizes as a "fortuitous concourse of unrelated prejudices."

Describing a collection of sacred relics gathered by Philip II, he playfully writes: "With the exception, perhaps of Cuvier, Philip could see more in a bone than any man who ever lived. In his long life of oseeous enthusiasm he collected 7,421 genuine relics—whole skeletons, odd shins, teeth, toe-nails and skulls of martyrs—sometimes by a miracle of special grace, getting duplicate skeletons of the same saint."—"Castilian Days," Charles C. Moore, in Putnam's Magazine.

MEDICAL MEN IN BIG SUPPLY

America Is Credited with Almost Twice the Number That Supplies European Wants.

One of the medical journals recently announced that the number of physicians was decreasing. It admitted that there was no immediate prospect of a noticeable dearth of doctors, but it suggested, to put it plainly, that there was danger of young men being scared off the medical field "by the constantly increasing requirements for admission to the medical schools."

Now comes another lot of statistics which shows that the doctors in the United States numbered 154,000 in 1910, versus 132,000 by the United States census of 1900, giving, with the increased population, an increased clientele a doctor from 572 to 584. In Europe, says the Post-Graduate, experience has shown that a physician can care for 2,000 of the general population, and it is estimated that, even with more stringent requirements to diminish their ranks, it will be past 1949 before a proportion is reached which is there deemed normal. We are over 35 years in advance of the natural requirements, which means not only individual average suffering for the profession, but also a serious economic problem for the country.

Duties of Oldtime Carvers.

At the formal banquet of the sixteenth century the man who carved the meat was bound with the red tape of precedent. When carving for distinguished guests he had to remember that certain parts of the birds or meat must be set aside. In carving for his lord and lady he was expected to exercise great discretion in the size of the pieces he sent around, "for ladies will be soon angry and their thoughts soon changed, and some lords are soon pleased and some not, as they be of complexion." He was expected to have the rules both of the kitchen and the peacage at his knife's end. A pike, for instance, must be dished up whole for a lord, and in slices for commoner folk. The rank of his diners, too, determined whether a pig was to be served up whole, sliced, plain or with gold leaf, or whether new bread or bread three days old should be eaten.

Suez Once a Natural Channel.

There is every reason to believe that some 3,000 years ago, in the time of King Solomon, there was an open channel through Suez, by which the light draft vessels of the Phoenicians passed through on their voyages to Asia and to the gold regions of Ophir, which are now known to be in Africa, and reached from the east coast of the continent. In the course of time the two seas (the Mediterranean and the Red), by action of the waves, filled up the connecting channel, and so it remained until it was opened by the French under De Lesseps for traffic November 17, 1869, at a cost of about $85,000,000. It was subsequently enlarged at moderate cost.

His Dilemma.

Customer (nervously)—I want a beefsteak to take home to dinner. Unexpected guest, you know. Wife telephoned me to get the steak. Jane always buys the meat herself, you see, and she's awfully particular. What have you got?

The Butcher (encouragingly)—Well, wot do you say to a nice juicy porterhouse, cut thick; or maybe you'd prefer a couple o' cuts of tenderloin?

Customer (still more nervously)—Well, I'm blest if I know which. Say, you couldn't lemme have a couple o' samples to take home an' show her, could you? It's only a half dozen blocks from here.

Confidence of Genius.

"You say your dirigible balloon is a success?"

"Yes," answered the inventor.

"But it came down to the earth with a terrible bump."

"True. But it hit very close to the spot I was aiming at."

PUZZLED HIM.

The stout Teuton with the many bundles had been standing on the rear platform for some blocks. Suddenly the car came to a stop and the big man was jostled off.

"Vere vas I?" he asked in a bewildered way.

"Why, you're off," laughed the conductor. "Are you on?"

The Teuton rubbed his eyes.

"I vas on, vas I off?"

"No, you are off; are you on?"

"I am off if I'm off?"

"No, you don't understand. You are off—"

"Ung how can I be on of I vas off?"

"Why, listen—"

"You mean to say I vas off and on?"

In under words, I vas on and off at der same time. Vot? No? Vell, I dink young man, if any von vas off ut in you. Now, dake dot!" And gathering up his bundles the big man started across the street, scowling at the car all the while.

WILLING TO PLEASE.

Fair Patient—I feel quite worn out, doctor. The incessant ringing of those church bells has got on my nerves.

Doctor (young and Hibernian)—Och, shure, an' we'll remedy that! I'll have straw laid down in the street.—By-stander.

Agony.

The man with the bat steps up to the plate—

The bleachers give a shout:

But, oh, what a groan doth rend the skies

When the pitcher fans him out!

His Bluff Called.

"Scuse me, ma'am," said the husky hobo, "but I'm hungry ernuff t' eat a raw dog."

"Well," replied the woman on the back porch, "just wait here a second and I'll call one for you."

But the h. h. was trying to beat his own getaway record down the pike.

Again the Proverb.

Myer—Old Graftleigh has failed and I have been appointed receiver.

Gyer—Aren't you afraid of being arrested?

Myer—Arrested! What for?

Gyer—Why, according to the old adage, the receiver's as bad as the thief.

The Summer Maid.

"Will you marry me?" asked the young man.

"Go get a reputation," rejoined the summer girl, "then ask me."

"Beg pardon?" queried the y. m.

"Get engaged to three or four other girls," explained the s. g., "then I'll consider your proposal."

A Shattered Illusion.

Friend—Why are you sorry you started your "Answers to Correspondence" column?

Editor—I always supposed my paper appealed to a sensible class, but the questions they ask prove them to be the biggest fools outside the lunatic asylum.—Judge.

He Realized It.

"Very few of us realize the terrible things that may result from a word hastily spoken," said the benevolent woman.

"Well, I realize it," answered the young man who sat by her on the train. "I'm a baseball umpire."

The Auto Odor.

Redd—They tell me some of the incense stick in Tibet costs from one to two dollars apiece.

Greene—Oh, they are troubled with the gasoline smell over there, too, are they?—Yonkers Statesman.

Safe Eat.

Church—They say when a man's ears are red that somebody is talking about him.

Gotham—Yes; and he can be pretty sure that somebody is when his nose is red, too!

For One Admission.

"Every rainstorm," complained the faithful pessimist, "means a postponed game."

"And every postponed game," pointed out the juvenile optimist, "means double leisure."

In Society.

"You have two charming children, haven't you, Mrs. Ton?"

"I did have last week—wait a moment and I will ask the nurse."

Tied and Untied.

Said He—So your friend found marriage a failure, did she?

Said She—No, indeed! The jury was kind and granted her $50,000 alimony.

BOOKKEEPING ON THE FARM.

Important Point That Seems to Concern Agriculturists Altogether Too Little.

It may be necessary to give up all cherished hopes for our life work as planned and partly entered upon, and betake ourselves to farming to get the outdoor life and activity which is demanded if we expect to remain in good health. We are like boys at school now, and must endeavor to learn how to do everything required in the best possible way. If future conditions demand less detail in any of our methods we shall cast out what is useless; on the other hand, greater elaboration and omre care may be found requisite to attain the ends desired in a satisfactory way.

We are determined to learn all we can by experience of our own and from the experience of others. For, whatever we do in the years to come in the line of outdoor work, be it truck gardening, light farming, raising poultry, or breeding live stock, it is our intention to be thoroughly business-like and aggressive to the extent that changed conditions of health demand. Whatever we do shall be well done and according to approved standards—and there is no better guide to profitable activity for the aggressive, ambitious business man than an efficient method of accounting, as simple as circumstances permit.

Many farmers now struggling to pay the interest on their heavily mortgaged properties might be happy and prosperous and owe no man if they could be brought to the point of willingness to learn the significance of the terms "debit" and "credit" and of rousing themselves up and applying the knowledge to the business in hand.

GOING BACK INTO THE PAST.

Some Men Will Smile, and Some Frown, But Their Recollections Are Much the Same.

They do say that one of the things a fellow remembers is the first time he ever went courting a girl. And it is one of the last things he wants to forget, even if she turned him down later on.

It is not the trial now that it was back in the good old days. In the country districts folks lived in houses of one or two rooms, or three at most, so that when a fellow went sparking he had to face the whole family, and you may depend upon it that the whole family faced him. Sometimes they didn't try to make life pleasant for him. This was specially true of the girl's younger brothers and sisters.

Do you remember how big your feet felt, and the trouble you had to find places for your hands, and how difficult it was to keep up a conversation? But if you had grit enough you would stay or die right there.

But you never forgot it, and you never will. Nor will you ever quite forget the effort necessary to get your courage up to the point of asking her if you might call on her, nor how glad some you were if she said you might, nor how mean you felt if she refused your request. As a frost this beat the June affair of '59.

One Comfort.

Dick was a very clean little boy, and dirt disgusted him. One day he found a poor little starved kitten crouching in a ditch at the roadside and he brought the wet, muddy little walf home with him.

He took it to the hydrant and carefully rinsed off all the mud, but the shock was too great for the sick kitty and the breath of life departed.

Dick brought her to his mother, who exclaimed at the sight of the wet, drooping kitten. "Why, Dick, what have you done?"

"She was all mud and I washed her," Dick replied. "Oh, Dick," his mother said, sorrowfully, "I'm afraid she's dead." Dick looked shocked and grieved for a moment, then his face lighted up with a gleam of comfort as he exclaimed:

"Well, she died clean, anyway."—The Delineator.

Heights to Be Attained.

A crochety old farmer of Massachusetts had trouble with his neighbor, and as a result sought his counsel—ex-Congressman Samuel L. Powers, says Lippincott's.

"I want yeow ter write him a letter an' tell him this here foolishness hez got ter stop," he declared firmly. "I know what I want ter say, but I ain't got the larnin' ter put it just right."

"What do you want to say?" Mr. Powers asked.

"Wa-all, begin by tel'n' him thet he's the durndest, lyin'est, thiev'in'est, low-downest skunk on airth—and then work up."

The Printer's Children.

The case of the musical man who named his four daughters after the eight notes of the tonic sol-fa scale is matched by that of the provincial printer who named his children from the type fonts he used—Ruby, Pearl, Diamond. The first two are no uncommon names for girls, only Ruby happened to be a boy. He followed in his father's footsteps and afterward became a printer's manager in London.

What's the Use?

Cleveland Leader—Bjones—I belong to the "Don't Worry Club."

Psalmist—Do you live up to its principles?

Bjones—I try to. Gee, it keeps me awake nights trying to remember all the rules.

SHE KEEPS HIM GUESSING.

She has her moods, I must confess. They keep me guessing all the while. And with a cruel fickleness She deals alternate frown and smile. The sweetest things she's apt to say, Her looks, I think, are more than kind; That's just the way she feels to-day— To-morrow she may change her mind.

Now she is distant, hard and cold. To speak, indeed, I hardly dare For fear I may be overbold; She has a very freezing stare. It doesn't do to get too gay; Humility is best, I find. That's just the way she feels to-day— To-morrow she may change her mind.

When she is pretty mean to me Her disposition gives me hope. And when she's gracious as can be Then with the darkest doubts I cope. Her will I'm willing to obey, But what it is I've not divined. That's just the way she feels to-day— To-morrow she may change her mind.

The Curse of Genius.

The somber, long-haired, seedy-looking man was speaking in a voice of rolling thunder.

"A million times a million fateful curses sit balefully athwart his hateful head of tow! Through the gloomy eons may his black soul flit homeless forever!"

"Off his balance, I suppose?" observed the stranger.

"O, no," said Smith, "that's Rimer, the well-known poet, swearing at the editor who rejected his verses."—Puck.

Men and Their Smokes.

"That big fat customer is a grafting politician," whispered the cigar clerk. "I can tell by the cigar he ordered."

"That so?" ejaculated the man at the counter.

"Yes, he ordered a crooked one. And the other chap is a spiritualist."

"H'm. What kind of cigar did he order?"

"A medium."

The Masculine Idea.

His Wife—Oh, dear! I owe about a dozen calls. I believe I'll make them this afternoon.

Her Husband—Of course you'll wear your new directory costume?

His Wife—Why?

Her Husband—Oh, in case you should forget where some of the people live that you want to call on you could consult the directory. See?

COULDN'T HELP IT.

"He gave me such a nasty, ugly look as he passed," said the man in the Swiss hat to his companion.

"Whatever made you keep it?" exclaimed the friend, gazing hard at the Swiss man's visage. (Then the Swiss man looked carving knives.)

A Popular Turn.

The early robin on the bill Has lately been Successful in Spring vaudeville.

Helping Them Out.

Tjarks—How did the elopers make out?

Bjenks—Why, they telegraphed to the old man from Niagara Falls to send them a roll.

Tjarks—And did he send the roll? Bjenks—Sure. He telegraphed back, "as music was the food of love," he'd send them a roll of music.

Promising.

"So you think you will let your son Josh study law?"

"Yep," answered Farmer Corn-tassel. "Josh will make a good lawyer. He's got what I call a legal mind."

"What is that?"

"He kin find a good excuse for doin' about anything that suits his particular convenience."

After the Chinese, Etc.

"Been up to town, Si?" asked the old postmaster at Bacon Ridge.

"Yeas," drawled Silas Weatherby, "an' I went around four whole hours in a rubberneck wagon."

"Yeou did? Gosh! What was the last quarter yeou took in?"

"Why, a lead one with a plug in it."

Right in Line.

"I see by this paper," said Mrs. Griggs, "that growing children require occasional change."

"Well, ours certainly get their share," replied Griggs. "They brace me three or four times a day for nickels and dimes."

All Together.

Street Car Conductor (angrily)—Hey, you Mick! If you pull that strap in the middle you'll ring both bells!

The Mick—Shure, an' Oi know that as well as yer-self. But it's both inds uv th' cabr thot Oi want shod'd, bedad!

Giving Up Something.

Bill—Too bad about the sailors of our fleet.

Jill—What's the matter?

"Why, they just got home in time to keep Lent."—Yonkers Statesman.
